NEW-BRUNSWICK.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has pe titioned the Mayor and Common Council of New-Brunswick for the passage of an ordinance vacating a portion of Somerset-st, for the uses of the railroad. The railroad company, by virtue of au-thority conferred by the Legislature, is about to widen and straighten its roadbed through New-Brunswick and to make a new four-track system. The road runs diagonally across Somerset-st., and on one side is constructed upon an embankment, on on one side is constructed upon an embankment, on account of the steep descent of Somerset-st. To make its improvement a greater portion of the street is needed. In return for this portion the company agrees to give a nearby site, which can be converted into a new street connecting George-st. with the lower part of Somerset-st. The company also offers a sum of money, not exceeding $5,000, to the city for the purchase of other land which may be needed for the purpose, and for the payment of such expenses as may be incurred in making the proposed change. If these changes are made the railroad crossing will be much less dangerous than at present.

Sophie Elizabeth Neumann was born in Dutch Gulnea in 183. In 1876 she left her home to visit her uncle in Orange, N. J. She was then a handsome young girl, and had at home a number of suitors, among them being Adolph Nohl, a potter, and a native of Cologne. It was to break up this attachment that her parents sent her to her uncle's in Orange. They wanted her to marry some one in a higher station of life. She wrote one letter after she arrived in New-York on the steamer Alexandria, but was never heard from afterward. Her parents were was never heard from afterward. Her parents were distracted at her disappearance and advertisements were inserted in the New-York and Philadelphia newspapers, but nothing ever came of them.

Mr. Neumann, her father, died in 1892, and the advertisements were renewed. Isidor Rosenberg, the attorney for the family, communicated with the Dutch Consul, but it did no good. When Sophie was in New-York she stayed at the Hartman House, in the Bowery; at least, her letter was written from there. A search was made for the girl's old lover, there. A search was made for the girl's old lover, Nohl, and it was discovered that as late as 1884 he lived at Nos. 21 and 22 Eldridge-st., this city. Fourteen years ago, when Sophie was at her uncle's home in Orange, she told him she had married Nohl, and after six months of welded bilss he had deserted her. She then obtained a position as a servant in a family in Orange, and that was the last her uncle ever saw of her. There is a large fortune awaiting her, but she cannot be found, nor can any clew be obtained of her. The fortune left her is now in the hands of her uncle, John Neumann, who lives in Lubeck, Germany.

AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

THEY TIED THE CAPTAIN UP IN A QUILT. THEN THEY BANSACKED THE CABIN AND WALKED AWAY-ROBBERY ON NEW-TOWN CREEK.

George Pratt, of No. 564 Graham-ave., and Willfam Taggart, of No. 89 Powers-st., both of whom are longshoremen, were held to await the action of the Grand Jury by Justice Watson in the Ewen Street Police Court yesterday. They were held on suspicion of having robbed Captain Edward Van Allen, of the lighter Ben, of the New-Jersey Transfer Company, while the boat lay at Grand-st. and Newtown Creek, a month ago.

On the night of the robbery Captain Van Allen On the night of the robbery Captain Van Allen was asleep in the cabin. He was aroused by a noise at the door, and in response to his questions was told that his boat was noiff. He dressed hurrielly, and as he emerged from the cabin was knocked senseless. When he came to himself he found he was enveloped in a quilt, which was bound with ropes. As he was about to shout for help the muzzle of a revolver was pressed against his head and a man ordered him to remain quiet. Another man was ransacking the cabin. He used matches, and by the flicker Van Allen obtained a view of their faces. He thought he resonized in them two men who had worked for him during the day. They got $55, and when they went away threatened to return if he made an outery and kill him. He remained in his cramped position until refleved in the morning. The robbery was reported to the police of the Stagest, station, who kept it quiet. From the description furnished, both Pratt and Taggart were suspected. Captain Van Allen was compelled to go away with his boat the next day. Some time later the men gave themselves up at the station, having learned that warrants had been issued for their arrest. GOOD ADVICE FOR BUSINESS MEN.

"The American Grocer" in a recent issue gave the following sound and wholesome advice to business men:

The business men of the United States have had a long, hard time, in which effort brought little return, but now the chief obstacles are out of the way, and every man has a chance to go shead with ordinary prospects of ruccess. Success, however, cannot be attained without intelligent effort. The farmer has to plant and cultivate, and so must the merchant and manufacturer. It is useless to have meritorious goods unless you let the public know it. The most successful business men everywhere are those who realize the great fact that the press gives them access to the minds of the people, without the press meat of the great fortunes made in husiness would have been impossible; "that is why," said one of our most successful merchants, "I am always glad to see an advertising agent. I may not be open to do business with him at the time, but I always learn something that helps me work intelligently when I am ready to advertise." Advertising is the seed of business. Every business man should provide enough seed from which to raise his crop, and now, when the business interests of the country have got a chance to go ahead, is

COMPLAINTS OF CARELESS PACKING-AN EXPERT SHIPPER'S ADVICE TO GROWERS AND PACKERS.

Cable dispatches have been received by a leading apple export firm in this city, complaining that at Wednesday's auction sales of American apples, in Liverpool, a considerable quantity of the fruit was found to be in bad order on account of careless packing. Many barrels were landed in what is technically known as "slack" condition, which means that the apples were packed so loosely that they became bruised through the joiting of the barrels in handling. Those that arrived in good order were in active demand at the high prices of last week's sales, and the market was reported to be firm, with a strong advancing tendency; but the damaged fruit was sold at a sacrifice. One of the edest apple shippers in this city, who is acknowledged by the trade to be an authority on the subject, has given to a Tribune reporter the following information on "How to Ship Apples to Europe," in mind by farmers and others who wish to expor-
